

can prosper. But helping travel and tourism will create jobs and increase tax revenue. That means more money for education. Or we can treat travel and tourism like a cash cow and try to extract every cent that the Congress can out of this industry. That price will be high.

Last October President Clinton presided over the White House Conference on Travel and Tourism here in Washington, DC. He made a very fine speech. At the conference the President praised the industry and its achievements. He pledged to work with the industry to increase tourism in the United States.

To put on an additional tax, this is not the kind of help that the travel and tourism industry was looking for. This is not the kind of help that the people who run our restaurants, who run our various shops throughout the country, this is not the kind of help they were looking for.

Travel and tourism is under attack again. Instead of delivering the help, the President has promised to send in the IRS. Mr. Speaker, it is the wrong approach to take.
